Huskers, Cowboys Both Trying To Climb Back Today

Star Sports Editor

Two teams trying to climb back up the Big Eight ladder after being knocked down by Missouri's Tigers square off at 1:30 Saturday afternoon at Memorial Stadium when Nebraska plays host to Oklahoma

The Cornhuskers already have climbed one rung back toward the top of the ladder with a last minute comeback 21-17 victory over Kansas last week while this will be the Cowboys' first effort at a comeback.

But the Cowboys have staged a comeback of another sort under new coach Floyd Gass, who has taken over for Phil Cutchin, fired after last season.

The Cowboys had been relegated to last place in the Big Eight by pre-season forecasters and were given little chance of picking up a win against a non-conference schedule of Arkansas, Houston and Texas

But the Cowboys whipped Houston and Texas-Tech in major upsets an dled Missouri by 6-0 and 12-7 last week before losing 31-21, the same margin by which the Tigers stopped the Huskers, 17-7.

These happenings have brought the Cowboys new respect among Big Eight observers and probably more important is the self-respect they have gained.

Speaking of the Missouri game, Gass says, "The kids know now they can play against the better teams in the league and have a good chance to win."

The two losses suffered by each team have come at the hands of teams ranked in

Coaches' Capsules

Nebraska's Bob Devaney - "We had good practices this week with good effort and good hustle. We think we're ready to play. We'd better be ready."

Oklahoma State's Floyd Gass - "I can sense our boys feel something special about playing Nebraska. It's been a good rivalry through the years."

the top 10. In addition to the 10-point losses to fifth-ranked Missouri, Nebraska lost a 10pointer to seventh-rated Southern Cal and Oklahoma State was beaten, 39-0, by fourthranked Arkansas.

Both teams like to throw the ball.

Nebraska's Jerry Tagge is the Big Eight's leading passer on 71 of 128 for 56% and 876 yards and Oklahoma State's Bob Cutburth has completed 42 of 125 for 554 yards.

Nebraska is first and Oklahoma State third in the league in passing offense and one of the reasons for that is the protection offered for the respective passers by their offensive lines.

"I thought our pass protection in the Missouri game was outstanding," Gass points out. "We'll need the same effort against Nebraska if we are to give Cutburth time enough to throw."

Oklahoma State scout John Hammond, who saw the Huskers' win over Kansas, praises the NU offensive line, noting, "They give Jerry Tagge all the time in the world to find his receivers."

Tagge's primary targets, Jeff Kinney, Jim McFarland and Larry Frost, rank 1-2-3 in the Big Eight in pass receiving.

Both quarterbacks also are good runners with Tagge picking up 106 yards on the ground and Cutburth rushing for 122 this Offensively, Husker coach Bob Devaney calls the Cowboys "the best we've faced other than Southern Cal and that includes

Citizens, Guerrillas Clash With Troops

Beirut, Lebanon (A) -Demonstrations in defiance of a government curfew erupted into open street warfare in the northern Lebanese port of Tripoli Friday. At least seven persons were reported killed.

Troops fought running battles with armed civilians and Arab guerrillas. The boom of heavy weapons echoed off building walls. Lebanese Mirage jet fighters swept low over the city.

Flurries Of Activity The outburst came amid flurries of activity on the Middle East scene: -Egyptian planes struck

Israeli forces in the northern Sinai Desert for the second straight day, the military command in Tel Aviv said. Eleven Israeli soldiers were reported wounded. Israel er said its planes attacked Egyptian positions at Ras Gharib, about 120 miles south of Suez City. Neither side reported any aircraft

-South Yemen broke diplomatic relations with the United States and ordered all U.S. Embassy personnel out of the country in 24 hours. Salem Ali Rabyee, 35, chairman of the presidential council, blamed "U.S. imperialism" for recent clashes between Palestinian guerrillas and government troops in Lebanon.

In Tripoli, a city of 150,000 people and a hotbed of Arab nationalism, snipers turned their guns on Lebanese troops in the Chateau St. Gilles, a massive castle overlooking the area. Lebanese security forces moved cautiously up the steep street toward the castle firing machine-gun bursts at suspected sniper positions.

The sounds of heavier weapons reverberated through the city, and jets swooped low over buildings as troops on the ground tried to clear barricades of burning Armed Palestinians stole two government cars and headed north toward the Nahr el Bared refugee camp with police in pursuit. The camp is one of two Palestinian refugee centers outside Tripoli.

Curfew Defied Some reports said the outbreak in Tripoli began when Moslems defied a round-theclock curfew to attend prayer ceremonies at mosques. Friday is the Moslem Sabbath.

But a government communique claimed that the mother of a local political leader complained that her son's house was surrounded by police and that more than 100 of his armed followers clashed with police who went to investigate.

All major cities in the country were under indefinite curfew, and most were reported relatively quiet.

Mosque preachers in Syria, Iraq and Jordan accused Lebanese authorities of oppression and "intolerable heresy" in the dispute over Palestinian guerrillas who want to use Lebanon as a base for attacks against Israel. In Cairo, the preachers urged all Moslems to halt the bloodshed in Lebanon because "Arab arms and fire should be spared for the battle of destiny.

Mark's Value Goes Up 9.3%

Ehe New york Eimes

Bonn - The West German mark was revalued upward Friday to 27.3224 American cents from 25 cents in the first major act of Chancellor Willy Brandt's government.

The decision, which lifted the rate by 9.2896% above the old parity, was taken after more than a year of speculation in exchange markets, some of it so frenzied that it threatened to topple the monetary system.

The new parity is higher than had been expected. Economics Minister Karl Schiller, in announcing the cabinet's decision, said it was a "courageous rate, but certainly not a foolhardy one."

The more valuable mark should have the effect, although it may be slow in coming, of reducing Germany's huge trading surplus. It will also accelerate an outflow of capital, funds that had been pumped into Germany by speculators all of an upward parity adjustment.

All of Germany's trading partners should reap advantages since a higher mark means that higher-priced German goods will be placed in world markets.

For the United States, the higher parity brings with it the disadvantage of increasing the $1 billion annual cost of garrisoning American troops in Germany. Washington may seek to negotiate on adjustment.

Wounded Girl Said Informant sabotage at the Mason City Dakota City (A) - An official of Iowa Beef Packers, Inc., said Friday a teen-age girl who was shot this week had been giving the labor-troubled company information on strikers' activities.

The girl, Michaelene Nielsen, 19, of Sioux City, Iowa, was wounded and her 16-year-old sister, Nancy, was killed in a shooting in their apartment in the predawn hours Tuesday.

Currier Holman of Sioux City, chairman of the board of directors of Iowa Beef, told the Associated Press that Michaelene "had been giving us information on the activites of the strikers."

He declined to elaborate.

$10 Million Sought Meanwhile, a $10 million damage suit was filed Friday by Iowa Beef against the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen. Arden Walker, Iowa Beef vice president of industrial relations, said the suit was filed in U.S. District Court at Fort Dodge, Iowa.

The company charged that there have been acts of

Murder Charged

Harold Johnson, 36, of Sioux City, has been charged in the girls' shooting with murder and assault with intent to murder. Police said Johnson, Michaelene, and Roger Harnack, 21, of Sioux City, who officers said was in the apartment with Johnson all are employes on strike against Iowa Beef.

The Sioux City police had said privately earlier that there might have been a connection between the shooting and the violence surrounding a two-month strike at Iowa Beef's Dakota City meat processing plant. But Woodbury County Atty. Edward Samore of Sioux City said Wednesday, "At this point I have not seen any connection whatsoever between the assault itself and the strike.'

Nixon's Military Policy Riskier, More Cautious

Washington - Nine months into its term, the Nixon administration is beginning to shape a long-range military policy that is both riskier and more cautious than that of its Democratic predecessors.

The new administration is determined to cut back sharply on non-nuclear forces - the planes, tanks, ships and battalions that provide traditional military power, accepting the risks implicit in s u p p orting undiminished global commitments with diminished forces.

But in the realm of nuclear weapons - missiles, antimissiles and bombers — the opposite appears to be the case. While willing, even eager, some contend, to seek an arms-control agreement with the Soviet Union, the administration has made a policy decision to prevent the country could do in return.

European Tour Highlighted By Colorful Youth Congress

Star Staff Writer

An inspiring and colorful world youth congress highlighted a summer European tour for College View Academy senior Jerry Teter of Omaha.

Teter, 17, and two other Academy students joined some 15,000 young people from nearly every nation at the four-day Seventh Day Adventist World Youth Congress in Zurich, Switzerland.

Each of the participants wore native costumes, which turned the event into a continuous colorful show for the Americans, he reported.

Emphasized throughout the events was the idea that a person "should not be afraid to live his Christian experiences. If we live our faith, we will win more souls for Christ.' Teter declared.

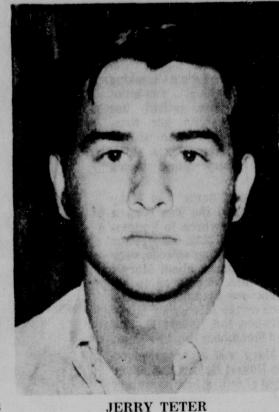

Missionary Work

A serious, concerned student, Teter is considering work as a medical missionary. "Too many," he pointed out, "get a good education but are primarily interested in the money from medicine. They don't put in the additional time and benefits that would teach the message of Christ better." The Academy students, Teter, Helen Ann

Jones and Ricky Krueger, traveled with some 40 other Seventh Day Adventists from Nebraska and Wyoming on the summer sponsored by the Central Union Seventh Day Adventist Church.

At the Academy, Teter is vice president of the Religious Life organization, which arranges the religious meetings of the school, vespers and "voice of youth" meetings.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Three cheers for Dr. William Glasser! Glasser is a psychiatrist and an advisor to several school districts in California, California, it seems, is always upsetting things some way or other in the field of education and Glasser was no exception as he addressed a session of the Nebraska State Education Association meeting in convention in Lincoln.

Kids ought to love Glasser. He told the Nebraska teachers that they should stop relying on memory teaching and do away with failing marks. But he isn't just a friend of the kids. He was not a Halloween special on the program.

What Glasser said has made sense to us for a long time from the time, in fact, that we sat in grade and high school ourself and memorized a lot of dull facts. And while we were memorizing these facts we were learning nothing about the real process of cultivating the mind.

How many kids today could tell you the date of the Civil War and the names of famous battles and generals? A great many of them could do it, but so what?

How many of them could tell you what the civil war was all about, how inhuman the war was, about its awful aftermath and the many other aspects of the thing that are of real importance? We doubt that one in 10 could give you any meaningful answers along this line.

That is the point made by Glasser. Facts, he said, can be obtained by looking them up in books. The important thing in education should be to cultivate in young people an appreciation for learning and an understanding of how to go about

The failure of many college students today can be directly attributed to the boring reliance of elementary and secondary teachers on the memory process, and their lack of inspiration and ingenuity. Many students arrive at college with no concept at all of how to study, how to research something or what the learning process means.

If you want to know why many adults today have so little understanding of other lands, one reason might be the dull geography and history they were subjected to as children. You can get more out of one issue of the National Geographic Magazine, for instance, than a lot of kids will pick up in 12 years of formal schooling.

Judging from the textbooks we knew as children and from those that are now in use, we would say that things haven't changed much in recent years. In looking at the written work of today's students, the same thing can be

If you got right down to the cold facts of classroom experience, it would not be surprising to find that education has changed the least of anything in our society over the past quarter of a century. It still remains a process that alienates far more young people than it inspires.

It remains something many young people accept as a matter of discipline but for no other reason. It remains cluttered with a lot of requirements the young people consider as nonsense and the older people cannot really defend.

Glasser attacked, also, the system of grading which labels some youngsters as failure. He is right in pointing out that no student should be so branded at such an early

None of this is going to change overnight, of course, but it is hoped that Glasser's remarks end up as something more than just another speech at the annual teachers' convention. That is the way with most conventions but it doesn't have to

Here is a subject that the state group could adopt as a project. It could seek to find out exactly where education stands today in stimulating the child toward the fullest development of its intellect.

No one school is likely to buck the precedent of many years but an organization such as the NSEA could greatly influence school systems to look critically at themselves and attempt to do a better job of helping young people.

A total of 550 aliens from 36 nations — including Egypt, Yugoslavia and South Vietnam - have taken 2-to-36-week courses at the Army's Chemical School at Ft. McClellan, Ala.

Although fewer than halfa-dozen Egyptians have learned about poison gas in the U.S., these key officers reportedly used their ominous American know-how to help plan the poison-gas attacks upon Yemen in 1967. Representatives of the International Red Cross verified that Egyptian pilots dropped canisters of poison gases from two MIG fighters and nine Ilyushin bombers over Ketaf, a remote Yemen community. Some 150 villagers gagged, coughed and bled to death.

The Egyptians, like other foreign specialists, supposedly were taught only "defense" against the hideous sprays and germs. As part of the "defense" courses at Ft. McClellan, however, they received expert instruction in the poisonous qualities of the gases, how these gases can be disseminated and which gases are most effective under various conditions.

U.N. Approaches Milestone

Turning into its 25th year, the United Nations' history of compassion for the youth of the world and refugees from countless conflicts, its interest in the good health of the globe's citizens and the economic and social development of their respective countries, its promotion of better understanding between peoples unfettered by political doctrines has been a worthy

But in pursuit of its greatest challenge and goal — the complicated reality of peace — it has been afflicted by the same sickness as its predecessor: the selfishness of the governments of its member states.

Past achievements in the search for peace and the halt of aggression in which the U.N. has participated — the Mideast and Korea to name but two - have been largely forgotten, swallowed up by new tensions in which the nations in question refuse to use the U.N. effectively as a forum to settle their disputes.

Secretary-General U Thant said it clearly: "We have not done nearly enough to reach the goals solemnly proclaimed ... the scourge of war is still with us ... the armaments race continues under its own mad momentum . . . human rights are being flagrantly violated in southern Africa and many other parts of the

That the General Assembly President could proclaim that "the last 24 years have been survived without a major holocaust" is in no way due to whatever has been accomplished by the United Nations. Still, there is hope that nations will give more of themselves for a common cause more dear to them than they care to realize. Perhaps a more encouraging chapter will be added to the U.N.'s history when a world summit meeting, now proposed, commemorates the quarter-century milestone next year.

Don't Hold Your Breath

Things are not looking too good on the federal income tax front. Following actions continuing or expanding tax loopholes for various people, the Senate Finance Committee has now approved a cut of 4.5 percentage points in the oil depletion

That isn't exactly what you would call an early Christmas for the millions of Americans on withholding who pay taxes on every penny they earn. To cut the depletion allowance on oil from 27.5 to 23 percent is little more than a sop to the American

With the way the Senate hearings are going, it looks doubtful that there will be any tax reform at all this year. If and when it does come, it is likely to be on a very small scale, a rearranging of things but not much of substance.

ANTHONY LEWIS

But the hearings are serving a purpose. They are showing the people in general the great extent to which the tax laws are manipulated for one thing or another. The laws clearly show that it is not a matter of how much income you have, but the manner in which you derive your income that

Get your income one way and pay no taxes, but get it simply by working for it on a salary and you pay the full levy. It is amazing the degree to which our federal income tax laws subsidize one aspect or element of our private economy after another. Before the Senate is finished, the American people will at least know the tax discrimination practiced against them, a situation they are not likely to look kindly upon for so long as it lasts.

MARY FIELDS

They Had A Dream

The folks around Cascade, Mont., knew Black Mary as a freight hauler, mail coach driver, laundress, restaurant owner, and as the most picturesque character who ever walked the plank sidewalks of their town. In all the West, Black Mary had no equal.

She was a 6-foot, 200pound, cigar-smoking whisky-drinking, gun-totin' pioneer who settled her arguments with her fists, and once in a while with a six gun. Except for a skirt, Black Mary wore men's clothes.

Her real name was Mary Fields, and she was born a slave somewhere in Tennessee around 1832. Except for one adventurous episode, very little is known about Mary's early life. She loved to recount one episode, a fabled race on the Mississippi River between the Robert E. Lee and Steamboat Bill's Natchez.

Mary was a passenger on the Robert E. Lee and never tired of telling how hams and sides of bacon were fed into the firebox to keep up steam after the steamboat's fuel was exhausted.

公 公 公 Mary came to Cascade from Toledo, Ohio, in 1884 and went to work at St. Peter's Mission School for a Catholic nun to whom she was devoted. Mary did the heavy work and hauled freight for a mission when Indians and wild animals still roamed the countryside.

Another time Mary was caught in a blizzard so heavy she couldn't see the road, Forced to stop, she walked back and forth by her wagon all night to keep from freezing to death.

Mary left the mission in 1895 after her wild ways including a gun fight with one of the hired hands - got her into trouble with the bishop. She opened a restaurant in Cascade but soon went broke. Then she got a U.S. mail route. Nothing stopped Mary from her appointed rounds. If the snow was too deep for horses, Mary donned snowshoes and delivered the wolves and then stood guard mail on foot. Mary retired when she was near 70, earned her keep by taking in laundry and spent her idle hours in the saloon. She was still rough and tough and demonstrated it one day when a man who owed her a laundry bill happened by on the street.

Mary left the saloon, overtook him and knocked him down with her fist. Returning to the bar she declared: "His laundry bill is paid."

Mary mellowed as time went by and had become a beloved figure in Cascade when she died in 1914. She was buried there in Hillsdale Cemetery, a simple wooden cross marking her grave.

Nebraska's Secret

North Loup, Neb. After 40 years of study, Dr. Herbert Saur, a national authority on health and population, has clung to the fact that Nebraska is the healthiest state in the nation

- but he doesn't know why. Joan Dickerson, in search for a story for her magazine, Holiday, packed her bag and came out to get an answer. She may have stayed one night in Lincoln, because she wrote that she found all hotels maintained cocktail bars - beer the most popular, cheapest, but that bourbon held top place with the seasoned biblers. Stating in her report that she was making her study from the feminine angle, she visited in the rural area of eleven unnamed counties in south- back to mother. The central Nebraska, which Dr. determined folks stayed to Saur had pointed out as the make a living and build a health spot of the U.S. She found that farmers their children on that rigid

But after listening to the 10 o'clock news, they crave a piece of pie and a cup of coffee never, they urge go to bed on an empty stomach. Anelderly country doctor, when asked if it was hard work and substantial diet that made for health and long life, agreed that those habits may contribute but stressed the fact that a spirit of religion and Christian faith prevail among rural Nebraskans.

She seems to close her story with no firm conclusions, except fresh air and clear waters - the question still unanswered.

Perhaps she did not query some of the native sons or daughters and if she had she might have been let in on the fundamental reason — that the state was settled by hardy pioneers who knew of the hazards of the open prairies, the wind and weather, Indians, prairie fires and rattle snakes. Young families came in covered wagons to seek homes, not riches. Some of the softies turned their wagons around and went

Outcome Of Mississippi Desegregation Case May Indicate Burger's Judicial Independence

WASHINGTON - One of the fascinations of the Supreme Court, over the years, has been the independence of its members Chairman Rogers C. B. from the presidents who ap-Morton called attention to pointed them. last-minute call for a delay in the desegregation of 33 Mississippi school districts, scheduled for Sept. 1, has been one of its most controversial actions in the racial area. Many saw it as a frankly political gesture, damental policy questions designed to please the nothing could conceal the result: In the most resistant southern state, 15 years after Brown v. Board of Education, a court order finally requiring an end to the dual school system by a specific date was indefinitely postponed. And that course could hardly have been undertaken without consideration and approval at the highest levels of government.

Whatever the motivation,

But that policy runs into an unconcealed impatience, on the Supreme Court, with the progress of desegregation. The court has made amply clear that the time for 'deliberate 's p e e d' has passed in ending the separate school systems so long maintained by law in the south.

公 公 公

The court's mood was conveyed Friday by Justice Black. The Nixon administration's Assistant Attorney General for civil rights, Jerris Leonard, was urging the court not to be precipitous." In his misleadingly soft southern voice, Justice Black asked:

The Nixon administration's "Can anything be precipitous in this field now?" If history is a guide, the fact that Warren Burger was so early and prominent a Nixon appointee will have precisely nothing to do with how he will judge this Nixon policy. For president after president has been disappointed, even outraged, by the way his nominees to the supreme court have disagreed with him.

One of the most colorful cases involved those two powerful personalities, Theodore Roosevelt and Justice Holmes. Before appointing Holmes, T. R. wrote to Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts to make sure Holmes was "in entire sympathy with our views.' He wanted a man who was absolutely sane and sound on the great national policies for which we stand.'

Roosevelt cared especially about trust-busting. Yet within two years Holmes had dissented from a great government antitrust victory, the northern securities case. T. R. reportedly told a friend: "I could carve out of a banana a judge with more backbone than that."

公 公 公

There are other remarkable examples. As chief justice in 1870, Salmon P. Chase wrote the opinion holdin unconstitutional the paper money statute that he had supported as Lincoln's secretary of the treasury. By way of explanation in the opinion, he remarked that during the Civil War "the time was not favorable to considerate reflection upon the constitutional limits of legislative or executive authority.'

More recently, there was the Steel Seizure Case of 1952. In the majority that found President Truman's seizure of the nation's steel mills unconstitutional was Justice Tom C. Clark -Truman's appointee, his former attorney general and his friend. "In this job," a member of the court once mused, "a man is reduced to the irreducible minimum." That is to say, the justice has to peel off all those layers of convention, of views expressed to go along with some fac-tion or friend, and find out who he is inside. To state that, incidentally, is to remind us how important it is to have as judges passing on ultimate issues men of the deepest wisdom and character - men with something inside.

Chief Justice Burger's situation in the Mississippi case is the more interesting because he must feel the desire to have a unanimous court on this one. He may indeed want to write the opinion himself. That is to forecast, which with the Supreme Court is a mistake, but at least this case must be an important clue to the new

chief justice. (6) New York Times Service

The Galbraith World

BY JOHN LEONARD (c) New York Times Service

AMBASSADOR'S JOURNAL, A Personal account of the Kennedy years. By John Kenneth Galbraith.

Were one to construct, from the glass bricks in these diaries, an architectural idea of John Kenneth Galbraith's ego, it would be a cathedral the size of a subcontinent. Beneath each icon would lie a mirror and one of his books. Above each arch would be nailed the stuffed head of a state department mountebank. In each apse would be a bar, a groaning board and two or three beautiful women. He admits to imperfections - his fishing is indifferent, his sinuses are poorly, his "Uzbek is shaky," Krishna Menon reduced him to conversational impotence and the actress Angie Dickinson refused to accompany him to Honolulu - but on the whole his selfesteem is awesome. And he gets away with it. He is large enough to bear the weight of his own charming arrogance. He is, to use his favorite adjective, "agreeable" - I suppose because most men would like to be

MISS COLEEN MARIE GOODALL

An announcement of interest is being made this morning of the betrothal of Miss Coleen Marie Goodall, to Charles Lynn Focht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard D. Focht, by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Goodall of Bellevue.

The wedding will be an event of Dec. 20, and will take place in Omaha. Miss Goodall is residing in Lincoln, where she is a senior student at St. Elizabeth Hospital School of Nursing. Her fiance, who is majoring in English, is a senior at the University of Nebraska Teachers College.

East won dummy's ten with the jack and exited with a spade. Declarer eventually lost another club trick and went down one. Of course, South was unlucky to find East with the ace of diamonds and both club honors, but that's the way the wheel sometimes spins.

Declarer at the second table made the contract when he played a low diamond from dummy on the opening lead.

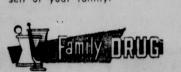

There was now no way to beat the contract. If West shifted to a club, South could assure the contract by rising with the ace, drawing

We learn little in these pages that is new about Kennedy, Dean Rusk, Nehru, Kashmir, Vietnam. Nor — except for a superb account of the China-India border crises, the story of the Boharo steel plant and the presidential letters—do we get much substantive examination of foreign policy issues. But the day-to-day life of an American ambassador and his family is delightfully recorded. So is the dreariness of working with the state department. engaging Baedeker. He is, moreover, a compulsive wit, aphorist and anecdotalist. On presidential appointments: "On all honorific boards and bodies, it is imperative to be either a Republican or Ralph McGill." On pragmatism: "Politics is not the art of the possible. It consists in choosing between the disastrous and the unpalatable." On the Indian parliament during the border war: "There was some heckling and a great deal of highly original military advice from the back benches. The arming of elephants was not proposed but only because no one had thought of it." And on the Indian military, when it was reported that General Kaul had been captured by the Chinese: "This was denied rather succinctly in the evening by Krishnan, who said, 'It is, unfortunately, We watch Galbraith's growing concern with events in Vietnam, as confided to his diary and the President. We come to understand how much of an ambassador's time is squandered on social functions, on waiting for the state department to reply to his queries, on balancing domestic (political) and careerist (personal) considerations, on fighting off the military and the intelligence agencies.

The sins of the mountebanks are not nearly so well documented as his biting commentary on the sinners. Perhaps the slight disappointment of this book, like the thinness of his novel "Triumph," might be accounted for by his disinclination to imagine other people's "realities," to project himself into their minds and shoes. On himself, and on abstract ideas, he is incisive and absorbing. Other people, though, seem only to move in fixed orbits around

Wesleyan On Road Today

Nebraska Wesleyan University's football team will play in its second consecutive "Homecoming" game of the 1969 season to-

The Cardinals are basking on one of their finest years this season and the cake

This was a battle of the unbeatens and the Texans were ranked seventh in the small college gridiron poll. This same Austin team handled Wesleyan, 35-20 three weeks ago in Sherman.

But coach Harold Chaffee's team appears capable of being the spoiler this week if the Plainsmen could get a super effort.

The NWU ground game really came to life to save a 26-19 win over Missouri Valley last week, but in that same contest the usually reliable passing attack was almost a

Mike Kemling became only the second Wesleyan player this year to gain 100 yards in a single game against Missouri Valley, but his performance went almost.

In that same game senior running back Tom Stootsberry rambled for 219 yards and three touchdowns in 32 carries to help doom the Vik-Stootsberry's point production of 18 in that game kept him among the nation's elite in that department. His 11 touchdowns for 66 points ranks him sixth in the nation in scoring.

And the Ashland senior is already the Wesleyan career scoring champion with 108 points despite the fact he played in only three games and scored only 12 points in 1968 due to a knee injury which required surgery.

Junior quarterback Steve McKelvey completed only two of 10 aerials against Missouri Valley, but still is nearing school records in the airways. The former Lincoln High field general now has 91 receptions

Mike Slatinsky has the school standards of 247 attempts and 106 completions. Mike's effort netted 1,593 yards and 20 TD's. Steve has 1,252 yards and nine touch-

But the big problem today will be putting a halt to William Jewell's six-game winning streak. Wesleyan had the Cardinals in a 14-0 hole last year going into the final period only to lose, 20-14.

That identical Jewell backfield is still intact along with 27 lettermen who helped the Cardinals to a 9-1 season in 1968. Leading the attack is co-captain and leading rusher Tom Dunn.

William Jewell owns a 4-1 series edge against Wesleyan. The only NWU win in 1966 by a 14-7 count.

Oklahoma is not the only Big Eight team treading into dangerous territory today.

Missouri goes to Colorado, where the Buffaloes are bristling for an upset after bowing to Oklahoma 42-30 last week. Colorado also remembers losing 27-14 last year at Columbia, Mo., and coming out of that game with six Elsewhere today, Oklahoma State plays at Nebraska and Kansas at Iowa State.

Oklahoma is battered physically. Nine Sooners were being nursed back to health this week after the rough offensive battle with the Buffaloes.

Kansas State must stop the Steve Owens-Jack Mildren-Roy Bell offense which has averaged 38 points a game. "We will try to stop Owens," Gibson said. "I think our kids will battle him pretty good."

Owens, who has carried the ball more than any player in college history, needs just 517 yards and seven touchdowns to rank as the greatest ground gainer and scorer in NCAA history.

Missouri, ranked fifth nationally and 5-,0 has had to keep pitching its defense together, but there is nothing wrong with the Joe Moore-led offense.

Now the Tigers also have James Harrison available, and he may be the strongest runner in the conference.

Nebraska, beaten two weeks ago by Missouri, got back into the race with a last-minute 21-17 victory over Kansas. The Cornhuskers will find Oklahoma State troublesome. The Cowboys threw a scare into Missouri before losing 31-

Kansas and Iowa State both desperately need a victory to fortify their sagging morale. Both have quarterback problems and may have to turn to sophomores before long.

Boulder, Colo. - Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney hasn't been the only one wondering if it was a Missouri weakness or Oklahoma State strength which brought the Cowboys, lightly regarded in pre-season forecasts, within 10 points of the Tigers last Saturday.

Colorado's Eddie Crowder must have had similar thoughts on his mind this week as his Buffs prepared for today's meeting with the fifth-ranked Missouri team which has compiled a 5-0 season record, including a 2-0 Big Eight Conference mark.

Devaney, whose Huskers lost to the Tigers, 17-7, and today faces an Oklahoma State team which last week led Missouri, 6-0, and 12-7, before falling, 31-21, has said. 'either Missouri isn't as good as we thought they were or Okahoma State is real good. I hope it's the first

Knights Fail On Conversion

WIN TRANS-NEB TITLE

Despite being out-played the final three quarters on offense, the East High Spartans won their first Trans-Nebraska Conference football crown at Seacrest Field Friday night with a 14-13 victory over Southeast.

East struck for two quick first period touchdowns in the space of 36 seconds, then had to rely on its defense the remainder of the game to pull out the win over the Knights, who have now lost four in a row.

Pat Gibbons' four-yard run on an end sweep with 5:38 left in the first period, gave East a 6-0 lead. Spartan quarterback Barry Blue sparked the 83-yard, 10-play drive with a pair of key first down passes of 27 and 19 yards.

After Blue booted the seventh point, East kicked off to Southeast's Kirk McCown, who ran from his 17 to the 25 and promptly fumbled with Spartan Tom Burtch recovering.

Blue faded back on thefirst play from scrimmage and found 148-pound halfback Kent Reckewey in the end zone and it was 13-0. Blue again kicked the point.

Norris, Ashland Play To Standoff

By DICK MEZZY

Outstate Nebraska Bureau Hickman - Whether it can be called a Comedy of Errors or not, the Titan-Bluejay confrontation here Friday night did provide some of both.

The Norris-Ashland game, a homecoming affair for Norris ended in a 14-14 tie giving each team two tied games, two wins, and three losses for the season so far.

In the opening minutes of the first quarter, Ashland speedster Ralph Lutton, made a 58 yard run for the first touchdown of the eveing sending Bluejay fans into a frenzy. The try for the extra points was good.

Norris came back in the closing minutes of the first quarter with a touchdown by Titan back Calvin Paschold, bringing the Norris team onto the scoreboard but an attempt for an extra point went wide experienced. giving Ashland a two point edge.

Prior to concluding their annual conventions Friday, teachers attending Nebraska State Education Association district sessions over the state elected officers and adopted resolutions

District IV and District V teachers, convening at Kearney, registered their opposition to a constitutional amendment which would permit granting of state aid to private schools.

In resolutions the District VI delegates, meeting at Sidney, supported the State Board of Education providing for licensing of teacher aides and supported state aid for schools, calling for a goal of not less than half the operating costs of the schools, with tax equalization and equalization of educational opportunities provided.

District VI delegates also urged its members not to sign contracts with school districts which do not have an index salary schedule within specified limits.

The Kearney convention drew 2,277 persons registered were: for District IV and 912 for District V.

Power Merger Said Likely By New Year

The long-discussed merger | meeting of the two boards of three of Nebraska's major power agencies into a single district may be realized within the next three months.

An industry spokesman Friday expressed confidence by January as the result of a adopted, Brogan predicted. financing decision reached Thursday by board of directors of Consumers Public Power District (CPPD) and Platte Valley Public Power revenue bonds. This is the and Irrigation District.

What the boards did was decide to execute leasepurchase agreements to finance the merger of the districts and the Nebraska Public Power System (NPPS). This avoids the costs which would be involved in refinancing of existing bonds at current interest rates. which are higher than prevailed when the bonds were issued. Brogan Confident

John Brogan of York, set for themselves some months ago.

The next necessary steps called the Nebraska Public will be taken at another Power District.

Life Insurance Leaders' Head From Fremont

Saturday, October 25, 1969 The Lincoln Star 18

William R. Emanuel of Fremont was named president of the Life Insurance Leaders of Nebraska Friday afternoon. Chuck Doane Jr. of Omaha became the vice president and John Gustafson of Lincoln took over as the secretary-treasurer. Emanuel said that the philosgroup to help each other to become leaders in the life insur-

Cost Of Meat Inspection To Be Halved

The federal government has agreed to pay one-half of the cost of meat inspection in Nebraska, Gov. Norbert T.

Tiemann said an agreement for a cooperative meat inspection program was signed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the State Agriculture Department.

The agreement will cover state inspection of those processing plants not covered by tion regulations is now under

The cooperative agreement was termed a "major step" toward implementation of the Wholesome Meat Inspection Act of 1967.

The 1969 Legislature enacted LB1367 to pave the way for implementation of the cooperative program.

If looks as if we are in for another "Fender Bender" type of winter. We suggest you contact us for the best in traction tires. We have the latest in new tires, cold and hot retreads and tire studs, our retread plant has the capacity to give you the finest, for the lowest cost per passenger cold retread mud & snow for 50,000 miles, twice the mileage of hot retreads. A poor traction tire can really cause a dangerous "Fender Bender" and cost 100 times more than the difference between a good & poor traction tire. 22 years of lire experience is your guarantee of safety & economy.
